Entries close for the Edmonton Spring Horse Show, March 26th

We understand this locality will be well represented at the Edmonton Spring Horse Show, in connection with which a Fat Stock Show and Cattle Sale are being carried on, April 7-11. The entries for the Cattle Sale close March 12th. A minimum freight rate of $2 is charged per head on all cattle entered for the sale. Exhibitors are requested to bill stock direct to the Edmonton Exhibition ground. For all other exhibits of live stock from the Province of Alberta the Exhibition Association will pay the freight to the ground. This should induce a large entry from the province. The price list, which is now out, and can be had application to Manager Stark, is most liberal and attractive, and already entries are coming in, not only from the province of Alberta, but all over Western Canada. Those who have not seen the new Stock Pavilion, a model of its kind and the largest in Canada, should not fail to do so. The show ring is larger than that of Madison Square Garden, and will give ample opportunity for the high jumping contests, the display of high stepping horses, fast roadsters, four horse teams, unicorns, and tendems, and other attractive features which have been arranged to entertain the public. The greatest enthusiasm prevails among all classes in the city of Edmonton in connection with this Spring Show. The merchants and leading citizens are giving silver cups for competition in many classes. The store windows will be decorated in the official colors of the Horse Show, navy blue and yellow, and it is expected that Horse Show week will attract many visitors to the Capital City.

Calgary, Feb. 18.—The Alberta hog is soaring. Coast packers of the United States coming into the local market have put prices of tops up to $8.30. Two train loads of hogs have been shipped from the local yards to the Seattle markets during the past two weeks.

Il ne faut pas se fier à la magie

Pauline Ranks, K. Petet S. Mitchell, bohémiennes, qui exercent à Edmonton l'art de la chiromancie—autrement dit, diseuses de bonnes aventures—ont été arrêtées hier sous l'accusation de l'obtention de la somme de $105.00 sous de faux prétextes, de C. Cogolin.

Katharine Pete aura aussi à prouver sa prétention d'être capable de retrouver les objets perdus, soit par adresse ou par magie.

Ces trois femmes tiennent une baraque à l'est de l'avenue Jasper, où Cogolin est allé leur rendre visite pour obtenir des indications afin de retrouver certain titre de terre perdu ou volé. Sur la promesse de ces commères, de retrouver en quatre jours, l'objet recherché, il leur versa la jolie somme de $105.00.

Tout naturellement, les quatre jours se passeront, et pas de titre et plus de $105.00; de là la plainte de la pauvre victime Cogolin. Le procès de ces femmes est fixé à Vendredi prochain.

Le nombre des bisons "buffalos" augmente

Le parc du Gouvernement à Wainwright contient maintenant 1,447 bisons "buffalos," 45 élan, 60 daims et 4 antilopes.

Durant l'année 1913, le troupeau de bisons a augmenté de 248 unités.

Au parc des Montagnes Rocheuses, situé à Banff, il y a 31 bisons, 23 orignaux, 21 élan, 10 daims, 3 moutons de montagnes et 7 moutons de Perse.

Au parc de Elk Island à Lamont, se trouvent 41 élan, 81 bisons, 29 orignaux et 52 daims.

Dans les différents parcs du Gouvernement, les gardiens rapportent que les bisons se portent admirablement bien malgré leur captivité, qui ressemble beaucoup aux conditions naturelles, et leur nombre augmente rapidement. Il en est de même des autres gibiers dans ces parcs, vu la protection qu'ils leur sont accordée.

Une perle de $500

Saskatoon, Fév., 23.—Peter Sperling, de Dalmeny, vient de faire une heureuse trouvaille. Ayant acheté des huîtres en conserves, trouva, à sa grande surprise, outre les succulentes mollusques, une perle précieuse, qui d'après les connaisseurs, vaut plus de $500.00. Il est tout probable que cette découverte, va faire mettre l'enchère sur les huîtres.

Un cas de cruauté inouïe

Un cas de cruauté la plus révoltante envers les animaux, a été rapporté ces jours derniers, à M. Down, de la Société protectrice des animaux, par Charles Campbell d'Edmonton.

Ce dernier revenait de Calder à Edmonton, où il était allé distribuer le pain à ses pratiques, lorsque long du chemin, il rejoignit deux individus qui lui demandèrent d'embarquer, mais vu le mauvais état des chemins et la fatigue que déjà son cheval ressentait, le charretier refusa, alors, un de ses hommes prit une pierre et la lança à la tête du cheval qui l'atteignit juste sur un œil, et fit une blessure si grande, que ce dernier sorti de son orbite et resta suspendu, balottant sur la joue du cheval.

Le charretier ne pouvant rien faire pour le moment, s'empressa de rapporter ces faits à M. Down, aussitôt qu'il arriva à la ville.

Le propriétaire du cheval offre $100. de récompense à quiconque qui donnera des informations pour faire arrêter l'auteur de cet acte de cruauté révoltante.

M. Carpenter nommé assistant commissaire pour la Police de la Puissance

D'après certaine rumeur, il paraîtrait que M. Silas Charpenter, ex-chef de police de la ville d'Edmonton, aurait été sollicité d'accepter la nomination d'assistant-commissaire du corps de police de la Puissance, dont les quartiers généraux seraient à Banff.

Quoique cette rumeur ne soit pas confirmée, elle provient tout même, de source presque officielle et semble être correcte.

Cette position est de création récente; M. Charpenter en l'acceptant aurait charge de toutes les affaires de l'Ouest concernant ce corps de Police.

Prince George is stepping at a lively clip

Transformed from nothing but a place with no white people, no buildings or nothing except a natural city site, in less than seven years to the embryonic metropolis of a vast, rich empire such is the history of Fort George, or Prince George G.T.P., at the confluence of the Fraser and Nechaco rivers in central British Columbia, 460 miles west of Edmonton, 465 east of Prince Rupert and 450 north of Vancouver. Moreover, nearly all of this vast change has taken place within the past two years, and its meteoric career so far is but a promise of what is to be, according to Albert Dollenmeyer and Charles W. Moore, two pioneers of the town, who are visiting Edmonton in connection with mail matters and other business.

When Mr. Moore went there seven years ago via Ashcroft he made the last 90 miles by dog teams, together with the mail carrier and two Indian guides. On his arrival he found but one white man, A. G. Hamilton, who is still a resident of the place.

Remarkable changes have, however, been brought since that time. Both the Nechaco and Fraser are navigable at Fort George the Nechaco west for 300 miles, including tributaries, and the Fraser east and south for 200 miles each way. Only ten miles away are the sources of many of the mountain tributaries of the Peace River surrounding the town on every side is good rich agricultural land, not clear but with more or less thick growths of valuable timber. There are also deposits of coal and other minerals, the wealth and extent of which has not yet been determined, as only for the past two weeks has railway transportation been available, to Edmonton and the east, via the G. T. P. This summer the same road will link up the Pacific coast and the outside world, via Prince Rupert. In two years Vancouver and the large territory lying between will be joined via the Pacific Great Eastern, a subsidiary of the G. T. P. Before that is expected that several lines will have been started from Fort George to the Peace River country and the north, including the Edmonton, Dunvegan and B. C., now building from the Alberta end.

Its natural location, the remarkable resources which surround it and the great promises in railway development and in other ways for the near future, has already had its effect of Fort George. Everything in modern city building has been started or planned. The G. T. P. portion of the town, located north of South Fort George and east of Fort George proper, on the old Indian reserve, and called Prince George, has been scientifically laid out and reservations made by the railway for up-town ticket offices, first class hotel etc. Even at this comparatively early date they have begun to talk of a street railway, as no less than 18 automobiles are required to handle the traffic between Fort George and Prince George at this present time, though they adjoin one another. Enormous development is looked for this year.

Mr. Dollenmeyer confirmed the news published in the Capital last week, regarding mail for Fort George. It should be addressed "End of steel P. O., G. T. P., B.C." with Fort George in brackets and will then reach there from Edmonton in two days; instead of about ten days via the old route.
